

University of Central Florida

Assessment

UNIVERSITY INSTITUTIONAL EFFECTIVENESS ASSESSMENT

DIVISIONAL REVIEW COMMITTEE

In October 2001, the University Assessment Committee unanimously approved the creation of Divisional Review Committees (DRCs) to implement the institutional effectiveness assessment process throughout the University of Central Florida. DRC members are typically experienced assessment coordinators from the review group. Each major academic or administrative division determines the composition and length of service for its DRC members.

As of Fall 2010, there are a total of 19 Divisional Review Committees:

Academic Divisional Review Committees

College of Arts and Humanities
College of Business Administration
College of Education
College of Engineering and Computer Science
College of Health and Public Affairs
College of Medicine
College of Nursing
College of Sciences
General Education Foundations
Rosen College of Hospitality Management
Specialized Programs (Two programs from College of Optics and Photonics and three programs from Undergraduate Studies)

Administrative Divisional Review Committees

Administration and Finance
Provost A (Deans' Offices, Vice Presidents, and the Provost)
Provost B (units in Information Technology and Resources, Academic Affairs, Undergraduate Studies, and Graduate Studies)
President's Division
Office of Research and Commercialization (includes several research centers and related units)
Community Relations and University Relations
Student Development and Enrollment Services
Strategy, Marketing, Communications, and Admissions

Divisional Review Committee members:

- assist faculty and staff in adhering to specific review criteria
- review and evaluate the quality of program or unit results reports and plans

- compare the results reports and plans to those of the previous year

The Chair of each Divisional Review Committee sits on the University Assessment Committee.